

SORROWFUL TRIP TO WASHINGTON BEGUN

Leaving Behind Sorrowing Tennessees Town, Special Train Bearing Bryan's Body Departs

SIMPLICITY IN CEREMONY

Mrs. Bryan Refuses to See Features of Husband in Death, Fearing a Collapse

On Board the Bryan Funeral Train, Enroute to Washington, July 29—(U.P.)—Leaving behind a sorrowing little Tennessee town, whose citizens almost to the last man, woman and child, gathered to witness the departure, a train with two special cars attached today bore toward Washington the remains of William Jennings Bryan.

The simplicity and lack of ceremony which, at the request of Mrs. Bryan, marked the reverent placing of the bronze casket in its car, served only to emphasize the depth of feeling with which Dayton saw the last of its champion.

Around the little railroad station before the train pulled out at 9 o'clock, were gathered the simple folk of the Tennessee hills whose cause the Commoner espoused. They came to say a last farewell, leaving the town quiet and deserted behind them.

In the rear car, where the bronze casket lay in simple state, was the widow and Mrs. Ruth Owen, Bryan's daughter, and Major Reginald Owen, her husband, and a few friends. Next to this car was one carrying newspapermen.

Previous to the departure, the casket had been taken from the pleasant little maple shaded cottage where the Bryans lived during the Scopes trial and where the Commoner died and carried it to a railway crossing three blocks away.

The special cars were brought to this point because the railroad station at Dayton sits on land higher than the main street and fears had been expressed there would be some difficulty taking the body up the hill.

Friends of Bryan who had followed him in his last fight for fundamentalism which taxed his strength to the breaking point, acted as an escort while town folk of Dayton gathered at the crossing and others at the station, waiting for the departure.

Mrs. Bryan refused to see the features of her husband in death, dreading a collapse. She was led into the little parlor where the body lay last night at her own request.

ALBERT L. ALLEN FILES MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL

Charges Verdict in Divorce Suit Was Contrary to Evidence and Alimony Was Excessive

FIRST PAYMENT IS NOW DUE

A motion for a new trial in the divorce suit of Sadie Allen against Albert L. Allen, has been filed in the circuit court by the defendant, against whom judgment was rendered June 29, when she was granted a divorce and judgment for $14,250.

The decree was entered on that date, with provisions made for the payment of $5,000 within 30 days, which expires today, but with the filing of a motion for a new trial, the action will delay the payment of alimony until final disposition is made. The decree stated that deferred payments bear six percent interest.

In filing the motion for a new trial, the defendant charges that the trial, was contrary to the evidence, that portions of evidence and testimony were introduced which were not admissible, and that the amount of alimony determined upon by the court is in excess and not consistent with facts submitted.

The divorce decree carried provisions for the payment of a total of $14,250, of which $600 is for attorney fees. The payments were ordered paid as follows: $5,000 within 30 days; $5,000 within 6 months and $4,250 within 9 months, and deferred payments to bear six percent interest.

INQUEST IS NOT COMPLETED

Further Evidence Over Death of Jesse A. Leisure to be Heard

Testimony in the coroner's inquest over the death of Jesse A. Leisure, Rush county farmer who was killed instantly Monday by a Big Fourth passenger train at Henderson, was not finished today, according to Dr. J. M. Lee, coroner. Several persons have given their testimony in the matter, and a verdict will be made after he has made a complete probe of the matter.

D. F. Syers, engineer and E. K. Crouch, fireman on the passenger train, were here Tuesday and gave their version of the accident. Neal O'Brien, conductor, and B. P. Crouch, a brakeman, were to appear before the verdict is completed. The members of the train crew reside in Anderson. Funeral services for the accident victim were held this afternoon at two o'clock.

COMPLAINT INVOLVES DRAIN 20 YEARS OLD

James B. Cooney Seeks to Prevent Peter N. Hill From Using One He Had No Part in Building

WAS NOT ASSESSED FOR IT

A complaint involving a drain that was constructed 20 years ago, was filed in the circuit court today by James B. Cooney against Peter N. Hill, the action being a complaint for a mandatory injunction, to restrain the defendant from using the drain.

According to the suit, the county board of commissioners in 1905 caused a sewer tile drain to be constructed in northern Rush county, known as the David T. Kirkpatrick drain, and it extended over several farms.

The defendant was not assessed for the drain and was not interested in the improvement, according to the complaint. He has recently extended a sewer of his own from his cellar and from a well, and tapped into the tile drain, upon protests of those who were assessed, and the action is to seek an order of the court to compel him to close up his connection with the drain, because he was not assessed for its use.

IMMEDIATE TRIAL OF TRIO IS IN PROSPECT

Judge Hines Announces That He is Ready to Call Special Term of Court to Hear Case

NEW BAIL HEARING REFUSED

Noblesville, Ind., July 29—Immediate trial of D. C. Stephenson, Earl Klenok and Earl Gentry charged with murder of Miss Madge Oberholzer of Indianapolis, was made possible today through action of Judge Hines in Hamilton county court.

Judge Hines over-ruled the motion of the defendants for a rehearing of its petition to admit the three men to bail.

At the same time, he said, he was ready to call a special term of court at any time to try them. Judge Hines declared there was no reason for reopening the bail hearing as the men had chosen to remain in jail in June rather than stand trial at that time.

"The court is willing to take all of its time if necessary between now and October to try these cases," Judge Hines said.

Ralph Waltz, one of the defense attorneys, asked for thirty days in which to prepare a bill of exceptions. The filing of a motion of this nature is usually a preliminary step toward an appeal.

Thomas Kane represented the state at the hearing today but took no action.

THE GREAT COMMONER

BRYAN IN RUSHVILLE 4 DIFFERENT TIMES

Made Political Addresses and Spoke Twice at Annual Rush County Chautauqua

LAST HERE AUGUST 3, 1918

Made Eloquent Appeal for Prohibition and Support of War—Spoke in First Campaign

Attention was called today to the fact that William Jennings Bryan's last speech in Rushville was delivered at the Rush county chautauqua [Saturday evening, August 3, 1918, instead of August 12, 1910 as announced yesterday.

Members of the chautauqua board recalled that an engagement was hastily made with Mr. Bryan to open the chautauqua on Saturday evening, which was a day earlier than customary, because he was in this part of Indiana and could conveniently make an address here.

It was also recalled today by a number of people that the Commoner delivered two political addresses here during his career—first in 1896 and again in 1908.

His first speech was during his first appearance in national politics, following his nomination in the democratic convention for president, when he made his famous "Cross of Gold" speech.

He spoke from a platform in the open space between Fifth and Seventh streets east of the Big Four and Nickel Plate railroads, and at that time it was said to be the biggest crowd ever in Rushville. It has never been exceeded since that time, a number commented today, unless it was during the celebration of the Rush county centennial in 1921.

Mr. Bryan's second address in Rushville was at the east entrance of the court house in 1908 during the presidential campaign, and he was greeted by an immense crowd.

Mr. Bryan's last appearance here was during the war and his address naturally dealt with war topics. He made an eloquent appeal for prohibition and declared the man who opened a saloon outside a training camp to weaken America's fighting men was as "guilty as a German spy."

He predicted the elimination of the saloon in a year and eight months from that date, through amendment of the constitution and also made a plea for the purchase of war savings stamps and liberty loan bonds.

POSSIBLE STRIKES FACING PRESIDENT

Reports of Labor Difficulties in Textile and Coal Industries Concern Coolidge

MAY ENDANGER SEN. BUTLER

President Has No Intention of Broad Government Intervention in Anthracite Dispute

By HERBERT LITTLE
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Swampscott, Mass., July 29—Reports of widespread labor difficulties and possible strikes in two essential industries face President Coolidge today.

With the anthracite coal situation becoming increasingly serious, the American Federation of Labor has come out in open hostility toward the New England textile manufacturers who are reducing wages in many plants.

The textile reductions are serious because of the great general influence of this industry on the country as a whole and because had times in New England would be certain to endanger the standing of the Republican party and would damage Senator Butler's chances of being re-elected in Massachusetts next year. Butler, close friend and senate spokesman of the president, has large holdings in one of the mills which reduced wages recently.

The president has no intention of broad government intervention in the anthracite situation and hopes that the quarrels between miners and operators over demands for increased wages will be settled.

WILLIAMS INVITES THOROUGH INQUIRY

Director of Highway Commission Wants State Board of Accounts to go "To Bottom of Things"

NOTHING IN THE REPORTS

Rumors That Examiners Had Been Denied Access to Pay Rolls and Expense Accounts

Indianapolis, Ind., July 29—(U.P.) John D. Williams, director of the state highway commission, today invited a "thorough investigation" of commission records by the state board of accounts.

"I want to see the examiners of the accounts board go to the bottom of things," Williams said. "They can see any or all of the books of the commission."

Williams' challenge for a searching probe of the commission's accounts answered reports circulated about the state house that the examiners had been denied access to pay rolls and expense accounts of the commission.

"There is nothing in these reports," Williams declared indignantly.

Examiners of the board of accounts, it was learned, are looking over the records of the commission for the third time within a little more than a year.

It was said the examiners were attempting to secure additional evidence for the two reports already made.

The first report charged gross irregularities in the disposal of surplus war materials by the commission. The war materials were turned over to the state by the federal government and later sold by the commission.

On order of Judge Collins in Marion county criminal court the report was impounded and never made public.

It furnished the basis of a grand jury investigation which led to the indictment of Williams, Earl Crawford and others.

Columbus, Ind., July 29—Land prices in Bartholomew county are on the boom again today. A tract of ninety acres sold at $200 an acre. It was the highest price paid in the county since the war.

TWO IN LIQUOR CASE GIVE BOND

Nellie Smock and James Bennett Released—Reardon Still in Jail

Bonds in the sums of $2,000 each were provided by Mrs. Nellie Smock of Indianapolis and for James Bennett of near Moscow, held on liquor law violation charges, as filed before Justice Stech, and a preliminary hearing will be heard on the cases on August 10.

Ed Reardon, also of Indianapolis, who was arrested with Mrs. Smock following an automobile accident in Orange township, was unable to provide the $2,000 bond, and is being held in jail. The couple is held on a charge of transporting liquor, and according to the affidavit against Bennett, the liquor was purchased from her. The preliminary hearing is for the purpose of binding them over to the circuit court, if the evidence is sufficient.

LADIES OF KLAN HOLD DISTRICT MEETING HERE

Between 500 and 600 From Eight Counties Expected for Sessions at Memorial Park

KLANS MEN ALSO GUESTS

Between five and six hundred women, representatives of the Ladies of the Ku Klux Klan of the Sixth district, were expected here for the all day meeting that was in progress today at Memorial Park, and for which a program was arranged.

The local committee in charge stated that every woman's lodge in the eight counties, Wayne, Union, Fayette, Franklin, Hancock, Shelby, Henry and Rush, was expected to be well represented before the night session began.

Although the meeting was in the form of a picnic and for the purpose of members becoming acquainted with each other, the men of the Klan were also invited to attend the meetings. The coliseum was rented for the sessions, and two large tents erected at which refreshments were served throughout the day.

The business program and entertainments were held in the coliseum, and will close with a program tonight. It was stated that the meeting tonight is not public, and all members in the county, both men and women in good standing, were extended an invitation to attend. Hooded Klansmen will be on duty tonight to receive the password before anyone can be admitted to the building, it was stated.

SCHOOL BIDS WILL BE RECEIVED ON AUGUST 21

City School Trustees Announce That Contract for New Building Will be Let Next Month

TO BE STARTED BY SEPT. 1

The board of trustees of Rushville school city today announced that bids for the construction of a building for physical education, which will include a high school gymnasium, will be received at the office of H. B. Allman, superintendent of schools, in the Graham high school building, Friday afternoon, August 21, at one o'clock.

The legal advertisement, which is a notice that the contract will be let, provides that contractors shall give bond that they will begin construction of the building within ten days, which means that the work will be under way at least by September 1.

Although there has been considerable delay in getting the building started, hopes are held out for its completion by the first of next year. It is pointed out that the last four months of the year are the best for building purposes and that the outside construction can be completed before bad weather begins.

The building will be paid for with the proceeds from the sale of $40,000 worth of bonds issued for this purpose, and with non-interest bearing loans from basketball fans which were subscribed last spring, together with the proceeds from the sale of season tickets.

BOOSTERS INVITED TO RETURN TO MAYS

Rushville Crowd Given Most Enthusiastic Reception at Center Township Farm Bureau Session

PROVIDE AN ENTERTAINMENT

Boosters Quartet Wins Ovation and Other Numbers Applauded—Farmers Business Session

The Rushville Boosters Club party received a most enthusiastic reception at the monthly meeting of the Center Township Farm Bureau Tuesday evening at the Mays opera house.

Victor Truitt, chairman of the farm bureau, expressed the sentiment of the meeting when he said that the Rushville boosters were welcome to come back any time they could find time to come and that if it was not time for a regular meeting, a special meeting would be called.

The boosters quartet was very popular with the audience, which insisted on number after number, and the quartet was willing. The quartet, composed of O. P. Wamsley, Omer Trusler, A. M. Taylor and O. R. Zimmer, was organized for the booster tours and has been immensely popular wherever it has been.

The quartet also ably assisted Mrs. C. E. Walden in singing "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," and Mrs. Walden and Mr. Wamsley sang a duet, "Till My Dreams Come True." Mrs. Walden sang alone, "The Melody of Home," and for an encore, "The Brownies," both of which were vigorously applauded. Mrs. Herschel VanMatre played the piano accompaniment.

Other musical selections that were equally well received by the audience were two cornet solos by William Polk, whose work as a soloist has been warmly praised at all of the township meetings where he has appeared.

The community singing led by Mr. Trusler was entered into by the crowd with great enthusiasm and several songs were sung at the beginning of the community meeting. At the close "Till We Meet Again" was sung.

The session opened with the farm bureau meeting and the regular business was transacted. Mr. Truitt presided and called on the county agent, Herschel VanMatre, to explain the county area plan of freeing livestock of tuberculosis.

Mr. VanMatre said that it would cost only $3,500, or about six cents on the $1,000 of taxable property. Figuring that the average taxpayer paid on about $12,000 worth of property, he pointed out, it would cost an average 72 cents per taxpayer.

If 51 per cent of the livestock raisers sign a petition for following the county area plan, he said, the county council is compelled under the law to appropriate the money.

CANNING DEMONSTRATION TO BE HELD HERE MONDAY

All People Interested, Including Members of Canning Clubs, Invited to be Present

AT HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

A canning demonstration will be held in Rushville next Monday at the domestic science rooms in the Graham high school building, and all people interested in the work of canning, are urged to attend. Especially should the girls in the various canning clubs of the county and those who are members of the home economics courses, should attend, it was pointed out today.

A state agent for the Burpee can sealer will be in charge of the demonstration, sponsored by the Rush county farm bureau. Valuable hints in canning will be given, and a complete demonstration conducted which will no doubt prove valuable to those who attend.

The demonstration here will probably be the first of a series, if well attended, and if enough interest is displayed, an attempt will be made to give the same demonstration in one of the outlying townships.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Country Kid" Castle

After viewing the new Warner Brother's picture, "The Country Kid," starring Wesley Barry, which opened for a two-day showing yesterday at the Castle theatre, we were reminded of the old fairy tale of the magic wishing carpet, upon which you sat down and wished yourself in Mecca or some other famous city—only imagine the surprise and amazement, if by some mischance the old Hindoo had been whisked off to a real old-fashioned Yankee farm.

It is placed right before you in the full mellow light of a New England summer. The little farm with its farm house, barns and outhouses; with its stong enclosed pastures, and the cows grazing peacefully, children happily playing under the shade of a tree; it is indeed a picture that makes many of us think of our own childhood days.

Thomas Meighan Picture

The Paramount picture, "Tongues of Flame" starring Thomas Meighan is the feature at the Princess theatre today and Thursday.

"Tongues of Flame" is the last novel by the late Peter Clark Macfarlane. It's a full-sized thriller with the star in his finest role in months. The pictures more than prove that Meighan's name outside of any theatre is a guarantee of money's worth entertainment within.

Tom is sure there when it comes to virile, two-listed "he-man" characters. And "Tongues of Flame" is Meighan at his best.

Joseph Henaberry who made Valentino's "A Sainted Devil" directed the picture which tells of a grasping capitalist who uses every underhanded means imaginable to swindle a group of Indians out of their valuable reservations. Meighan, playing "Hell Fire" Harrington, veteran of the Great War, in the employ of the swindler is used as a tool in the transaction until he is brought to a realization of what is going on.

NOTICE

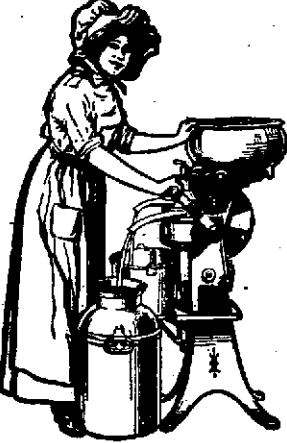

By Hal Pike

The other day a good, reliable farmer told me of his experience with a cream separator salesman who told him that the DeLaval was not as good as it was ten years ago.

I have an old DeLaval Separator I sold Mr. Seth Moor ten years ago. It was replaced last week with a new one. I wish anyone contemplating buying a new cream separator would come in and compare this old separator with the New DeLaval.

The DeLaval today is the same DeLaval it always was, only some very good improvements—Longer self oiling upper bearing; larger bottom bushing; bronze liners in crank shaft which was not at all in the old DeLaval; a bowl holder for tightening bowl nut; improved bottom on base and other small improvements. But the big improvement is the bowl that does the skimming. It is now self-balancing; only about two-thirds as many discs, heavier discs and all alike—Not like ten years ago. The new bowl now clarifies as it separates and is much easier cleaned.

Now it would seem unreasonable for the DeLaval Separator Co. to make a separator today that was not as good and sell as many as they do. I have already sold this year more DeLaval's than any whole year since 1918.

Set a New DeLaval in your home and compare it with any other separator. Let me take a DeLaval apart and show you the working parts. See for yourself how easy it is.

We Trade for Old Separators of Any Make.

Ten burly hogs on the way to market and eventually, slaughter, gained freedom for a short time Tuesday afternoon when a large truck in which they were being hauled turned over south of this city near the J. Frank Wilson farm, liberating them. The truck, with the hogs belonging to E. O. George, near New Salem, was going north and in some unaccountable manner went into the ditch and turned completely over.

The truck was not damaged in any way but the hogs escaped and walked back "home." The driver was not injured.

SOUNDS G. O. P. CALL TO ARMS

Beverly, Mass., July 29—A national G. O. P. call to arms for the senatorial election of 1926 was sounded here today by U. S. Senator Charles S. Deneen of Illinois, in an address at the mid-summer outing of the Essex county Republican club.

Deneen's address, which reviewed the records of the Coolidge administration, and closed with the statement that "it becomes a matter of the highest importance for the Republican party to prepare for the struggle," assumed additional significance as President Coolidge and Senator Butler, Mass., chairman of the republican national committee, were special guests of the club.

THE GREAT COMMONER

Inscribed to William Jennings Bryan for his memorable words: "One is not required to win. One is only required to do his duty * * * and the future will vindicate him." One is not required to win in the fight Against error, oppression and sin. If he loyally stands for the truth and the right

The future will vindicate him; Though failure be his, in the eyes of the world,

And his recompense heart-breaking loss; He will stand in the end with truth's standard unfurled,

Though his hands have been nailed to the cross. Let enemies scoff and high treason proclaim

His motives and life insincere—Let fate do her worst she will strive all in vain,

While duty calls forth loud and clear. Past honor and fame and all else put aside,

As garments too old to be worn, Even friends he would leave for, with duty his guide.

His untrammelled soul is new-born.

So this Pericles kind of a great modern world, With no heart ever saddened or stung

By word of his mouth or pen-shaft he has hurled, By the poor of all nations is sung.

In his great heart of love—out of this present strife—

Like the Son of God dying for sin, He will know when he comes to the end of his life,

That the future will vindicate him. —ELMER HUFFERD

Improvement in Movies

The proposal of a large per cent of the moving picture producers to celebrate the twenty-ninth anniversary of the use of the motion picture as a means of entertainment will meet with support from the public, if it is an honest effort made to set up new standards for the art.

The moving picture industry has shown many weaknesses, and some of its critics have been harsh. But criticism should be tempered with some degree of patience when we remember that, although a giant in stature, the business is a mere infant in years.

Perfection comes only through years of trying and profiting from experience. The moving picture producers, if they make an honest effort to better the standards of beauty and dramatic interest, they will be rewarded.

They must have the support of movie patrons. After all, the business of making moving pictures is governed by what the box office shows.

Those who seek improvement, who condemn the sensational and immoral pictures with their sexual appeal, should be quick to lend their financial and moral aid to better pictures built upon a higher plane.

The industry has made great strides in a quarter of a century. The penny arcades and the nickelodeons have been consigned to forgotten limbo. The exhibitors are endeavoring to keep pace with the producers. Give the moving picture enterprise time and it will come up to the expectations of the public as all other great American enterprises have.

One of the greatest issues before the American people is whether our public school system shall remain democratic, or whether it shall be used more and more in the direction of equipping a professional class.

The newspapers are full of protests that high schools, colleges and universities emphasize too much academic and professional equipment, when about nine-tenths of the citizenry of Our Country must work for a living in industries, in homes and on farms.

A remarkable union high school in California—the San Mateo-Burlingame district—is attracting wide attention of educators by giving employment to more than half the high school boys outside of school hours at good wages, doing all the work of maintaining the school plant.

For about 15 years, several hundred high school boys have built new buildings, maintained all repairs and kept the grounds in a model condition—doing actual manual labor and learning the ordinary trades that make community life possible—Principal Glascock has accomplished this and the community likes it.

His ideal is a useful contented self-respecting citizen, who can earn an honest living, build a home and support himself and family.

Hand-Shaking Presidents

Since President Coolidge became President of the United States in August, 1923, he has received over 100,000 persons. He has shaken hands with over 90,000. The United States Chamber of Commerce, appreciating the fact that every hour taken up in hand-shaking means just so much more of a burden to the President, when received by him recently sent word to the executive Secretary that they would pay their respects to the President but not shake hands, not desiring to add to the physical strain under which he works every day, for it must be recalled that the President is one of the busiest men in the United States. It is no uncommon thing for him to put in 12 to 14 hours a day at his desk, and even while visiting different sections of the country he carries with him stenographers and other aides and transacts business on the train or at the hotel in between times.

While the President has not voiced any desire to curtail the hand-shaking which has become our great national habit, there are many of the President's friends and well-wishers who would be glad to see him relieved, in part at least, of the strain to which he is subjected every day.

Stewart's Washington LetterBY CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Comparison of last year's internal revenue collections with the previous year's seems to bear out Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's dictum that low taxes bring in relatively more money—sometimes actually more—than high ones.

THE present law under which federal taxes are being collected has worked out exactly like that.

When passed, it was estimated the rate reductions it contained would cut revenues down 400 millions. Instead the country, cheered by the lightening of its tax load, immediately got so much busier that revenues haven't fallen nearly that much—only about half.

As a prophet, Secretary Mellon is all right—in part.

He said taxes could be cut considerably and revenues would be reduced only slightly, if at all. And so it proved.

But the tax cut wasn't the kind Mellon wanted. He wanted it made so as to lighten the load on the rich. That was the one, he said, who had accumulated capital to be waked up and set to work. Congress, however, insisted on making the cut in the little fellows' favor.

And lo, and behold, it appears that Secretary Mellon's rule applies to the little fellows anyway, whether or not some subsequent experiment may prove it to apply also to the whalies.

Now taxes are to be reduced some more when Congress meets next. Again Secretary Mellon will be on hand with his argument that tax cuts don't necessarily mean less money for the government—they may mean more.

He will say last year's experience demonstrates it. He'll be quite right. So it does.

But he'll say something else, that hasn't been demonstrated yet. He'll say the country will get most good out of cutting "super" and "sur" taxes down.

Of this we can't be so sure. It hasn't been tried.

Cutting down the little ones has, and it worked fine.

The British team lost to Yale and Harvard on a fluke and overwhelmed Princeton and Cornell a week later. One Princeton man, after the meet, excused the defeat of the Americans with the plea—"Our fellows were not in condition."

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Earl Vogel of New Salem, the Misses Lavonne O'Neal, Ruth Trager, Edna Lucas and Mildred Dungeon and Bryce Stoops, Donald Marshall and Carl Aarud.

The annual Lower reunion was held Sunday at Memorial Park with approximately seventy-five relatives and friends in attendance. At the noon hour a delicious dinner was served and the afternoon was devoted to a business session and a short program consisting of talks by different members of the family. The officers elected for the ensuing year were Thomas Lower, president; Lewis Krammes, vice president; Mrs. Mary Poston, secretary-treasurer. The reunion in 1926 will be held the same time and place as this year.

The Live Wire Club held their regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Dorothy Conner in North Harrison street. The evening was enjoyed socially with contests, after which a short business session was held. Delicious refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. Three guests, the Misses Ruby Morgan of this city, Margaret Updyke of St. Paul, Ind., and Mary Spinning of Ohio, were present. The time for the next meeting will be announced later.

Vinton Hudson and Miss Ellen Walker, Carthage young people, were married Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock at the parsonage of the St. Paul's M. E. church of this city, with the Rev. H. W. Mrs. Clyde Matney and sons were guests besides the members of the club.

One of the most charming of mid-summer weddings was that of Miss Blanche H. Arnold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Arnold, 546 Eastern Avenue, Indianapolis, and Wayne H. Irvine, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Irvine of this city, which took place Saturday evening, July 25, at eight o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. D. S. Heininger read the ceremony before an altar arranged between two large windows with palms, and ferns and lighted by tall Cathedral candles.

Miss Dora Rigdon, pianist, and Miss Clair Jackson, violinist, both of Morristown, Ind., played a program of bridal airs before the ceremony, and the Misses Retha and Irene Hetrick of Marion, Ind., sang "O Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly." The bridal party descended the stairway, led by Master Carl Unger of Morristown, Ind., ring bearer, and followed by the little flower girls, Roberta Keaton of Morristown, Ind., Lora Martha and Laura Mae Handy of Indianapolis, and Betty Jean Rawls of Lafayette, Ind. The little girls were dressed alike in the bridal colors of blue and silver and had frocks of blue georgette over silver cloth, trimmed with silver ribbon and blue rose buds. They carried silver baskets, tied with blue tulle filled with rose petals which were scattered in the path of the bride and her father.

The bride was preceded by her sister, Miss Jessie May Arnold, maid of honor, who was dressed in a frock of blue georgette over silver cloth trimmed with silver ribbon and blue rosebuds, and carried a bouquet of Columbia roses. The best man was Willard Armstrong.

The bride, who entered on the arm of her father, was lovely in a gown of silver lace over ivory satin with silver slippers and other accessories to match. Her veil was of tulle arranged in cap effect and caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

The ceremony was followed by a reception for one hundred and fifty guests. Assisting in the receiving and serving were the Misses Erma Belle Smith, Margaret Bitner, Volna Craig, Stella Irvine, Mary Keaton, Lucy Handy, Maxine Parish, Freda Cotton, Mary Talbert and Dorothy Arnett.

The couple left on a short wedding trip and upon their return they will be at home in Morristown. The bride's going-away gown was of gray silk crepe with accessories to match. She also wore a black stair coat with fur trimming.

The mother of the bride was dressed in a lovely gown of heavily headed taupe crepe and the mother of the bridegroom wore a beautiful gown of blue satin.

Six counties in the state have adopted the plan since the law was passed the first of this year and 15 others have made application for it.

Farmers are reimbursed for two-thirds of their loss, in case any reactors are found on their farms, the county agent pointed out. The average salvage, he declared, was about $52 a head.

Bert Benner, vice president of the Indiana Wheat-Pool, explained the reason for Michikoff wheat being docked and said that the Pool was paying only five cents less on the bushel than was being paid for soft wheat. He pointed out that the dockage was necessary because mixing hard wheat with soft lowers the grade of the wheat and compels millers to accept a lower price. If it could be kept separated from the soft wheat, Mr. Benner pointed out, there would be no occasion for docking Michikoff.

Mr. Truitt appointed Orville Brooks and Raymond Blount as a committee to make arrangements for the annual township farm bureau picnic and then introduced Dr. J. B. Kinsinger, president of the Rush County Chautauqua association, who took charge of the boosters part of the program.

After the community singing and special musical numbers, the Rev. R. W. Sage, pastor of the First Baptist church, spoke on community building, referring to three things that are essential—cooperation, spirit of good will and integrity.

"Cooperation means more than we think it does," he said. "All of your machinery is worthless without vision. If you don't believe your community is headed toward a better day, I am not talking to you. If you don't believe in these children and their tomorrows, the tomorrow of your community, your township and your county, then it makes little difference what we do."

"Working together is one of the easiest things to talk about but a most difficult thing to do. We must get along together if we ever accomplish anything. There is an old Hindu proverb which says, 'If you help your brother to steer his boat across the river, behold your boat is there also.' We can't build on our likes and dislikes, but must build on a firmer, broader foundation—a basis of loyalty to the things we are doing."

The second essential, he said, was good will, which he classified as another easy thing to talk about, but hard to do. No community can prosper without good will among its citizens, he pointed out.

"No man wants a thief or a liar living next door to him," Mr. Sage said, in speaking of the third essential. "If he was integrity, a man is more than honest because not only his overt acts, but all his motives are dominated by high ideals."

John A. Tittsworth was to speak about the chautauqua, but was unable to go at the last moment, and Roy E. Harrold made a brief talk about the annual assembly and urged its support. In closing the meeting Dr. Kinsinger also referred to some of the numbers on the program.

but kept her eyes on the floor.

"I won't look at him until the very last," she said. "I felt that if I looked at him now I would break down and I must prevent myself doing that."

"I don't want to look at him until they close the casket for the last time."

Bearing up with calm fortitude, the widow was taken back to her wheel chair in another room.

An invalid for the last five years, Mrs. Bryan is unable either to use her legs or arms, owing to a form of paralysis.

HAWKINS ADJUDGED PAUPER

Will be Permitted to Make Appeal Under Special Act

Indianapolis, Ind., July 29—Morton Hawkins, who once headed a $5,000,000 loan organization, has been adjudged a pauper by the United States circuit court of appeals at Chicago, Homer Elliott, special assistant district attorney, was notified today.

Hawkins will be permitted to carry his appeal from a fifteen year prison sentence for fraudulent use of the mails to the Chicago tribunal under the pauper act, which will require the government to pay part of the cost.

Testifying in support of his pauper plea Hawkins said all he had owned during the last two years was his watch and clothes.

FEW FAIL TO COMPLY WITH LAW

Number of Dog Owners Will Have to Pay Tax and Fine Too

A number of Rush county dog owners will have to pay a fine, in addition to their dog taxes, as the result of the county auditor turning over their names to the prosecuting attorney.

They were notified by mail and in newspaper announcements that last Saturday was the last chance to pay dog taxes without a penalty, but a few failed to comply with the law.

The statute was changed by the last legislature, providing that delinquent dog taxes be paid to the auditor up until a certain date, instead of the township trustee, as formerly. This resulted in confusion and caused many to fail to pay promptly.

increased wages can be settled within the industry.

The president believes that several factors, including fierce competition, have affected the New England textile industry adversely and just now he is inclined to sympathize with the mill owners, although generally he does not approve of wage reductions.

The president this afternoon will take an outing trip by motor to the Essex County Republican Club celebration at Beverly. He will not speak. Senator Deneen, Illinois, will be the principal speaker. Deneen will be the guest at the summer White House today and tomorrow.
